SUMMARY

I'm a biotechnologist who found a new passion for programming! After working in a microbiology lab, I realized it wasn't my true passion. As someone who loves cooking, I decided to pursue a master's degree in food development and, although I enjoyed the program I continued to explore different paths and found the programming world. I realized that I enjoy developing software more than food products! I just finished <Academia de Código_> bootcamp and can't wait for my career to begin!
